DRUNKEN SPOUSE FEARS COMING OF THE POLICE

Missing Wife of G. Dalgrouki of Ohio Street Thought to Have Bank Account Which Man Claims.

Crawling around on his hands and knees in the filthy, squalid basement of his home, G. Dalgrouki, alias Edwin Scheller, alias G. Fishburn, cringes in drunken rage before questions as to the whereabouts of his wife, Jennie Dalgrouki, who disappeared mysteriously last Friday and has not been heard from since.

Each time the Dalgroukis in the sparsely settled tract in Laurel Grove are afraid to go near the cottage which is located on Ohio street near the Redwood road, he says is up for sale and apparently deserted.

DOGS ATTACK LIVING AND DEAD

Animals With Rabies Prove a Menace to Rescuers and Wounded Still in Ruins.

MESSENA Jan 6.—Dogs now constitute one of the dangers to the earthquake refugees. These animals, suffering from hunger and rabies from the lack of water, gnaw corpses like hyenas and frequently attack the refugees themselves.

Among the wounded who left for Palermo last night was a young man whose eyes and right cheek had been terribly mutilated by dogs. After the earthquake he was buried in debris up to his neck and while thus unable to move was attacked by a pack of the animals and seriously hurt before his cries attracted help. Many people are shooting all rabid dogs at sight and stray bullets are another danger in the city.

Dies After Rescue

The work of rescuing the living will be continued for two days more in areas where there is reason to believe that success will be met with.

Scene of Desolation

The rain has at last ceased and the sky has cleared and the full moon seems to render the desolation more complete. The once picturesque hills smiling with olive groves, are now wreathed with gloom.

Once Beautiful Messina Is Now Scene of Desolation

WOUNDED STILL IN RUINS OF CITY

The centuries have reported it from the time of the Normans until a few days ago. Defying to near earthquakes, which have afflicted Messina, its great columns of Egyptian granite, heavier and stronger than bronze, were all tarred down and crumpled as if of chalk. The magnificent Norman and Angevin tombs of the Kings of Sicily have been reduced to ruin.

Many Are Insane

Among the many dreadful scenes none is more pathetic than those in which men and women have lost their reason from shock and suffering. It seems that almost half the army of survivors have become demented.

Today a part of soldiers came upon the remains of a man who once the city had. They found an old man standing there half naked. He held a blanket in his hand, but did not think to put it around himself, although the air was cold. The soldiers asked him why he did not cover himself, and one urged him to take refuge in a hut but the old man answered:

"I cannot leave, I am the porter of the mountain."

"UNCLE JOE" BLOCKS THE BIG TREE BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Had things gone well, the Calaveras big-tree bill would have been called up in the House yesterday and probably passed. It has already passed the Senate. But it never came up. Uncle Joe was seen by Congressman Engelbright, who had charge of the bill, but the Speaker would not promise to recognize him for that purpose. There seems to be no reason why

POPULAR ORPHEUM ROAD SHOW IS PLEASING IMMENSE AUDIENCES

RECORD-BREAKING BUSINESS RULES

Mlle. De Dio Heads Fine Bill of Vaudeville that Appeals to the Public.

Big business rules at the Oakland Orpheum this week, where the Orpheum Road Show, under the direction of Martin Beck, holds the stage. This organization broke all records last year for attendance at the vaudeville house on Twelfth street and, according to the management, every indication points to an even greater week of business this year than last.

The magnificent spectacle provided by Mlle. De Dio is perhaps the most striking feature of the show. It has stirred the crowds since the Sunday opening to extraordinary enthusiasm with its wonderful external effects.

The dramatic feature of the show is the playlet by George Ade, which Edwin Holt and his company produce. "The Mayor and the Minicure." It is played with speed and rare cleverness. Hyman Meyer offers a novel act in which he provides some smart piano playing with a lot of fancy but very amusing comedy puns.

MR. EDWIN HOLT At Oakland Orpheum.

Four Franklins, European aerial artists, open the show, with a lot of unusual feats done in mid-air. Next week, "Gus Edwards' School Boys and Girls" will be the principal new attraction.

The Governor's Message.

In keeping with the requirements of the State constitution, Governor Gillett's message to the Legislature is a strictly practical communication, setting forth in clear, plain and unmistakable terms the condition and wants of the State, and his recommendations will be commended generally as being just and timely. All debatable questions he has very properly left the Legislature to deal with in its own way.

The message takes a highly optimistic view of the condition of the State, which it truthfully describes as in "a most flourishing condition," as the result of a bountiful harvest, a good mineral output, an increased commerce and trade and population, which have added to the wealth of the commonwealth and which promptly dissipated a short period of financial stringency. "Financially," says the governor, "the State has never been in a better condition," and he proves it by citing the fact that the treasury contained at the close of the last fiscal year a balance of $7,305,045.96, of which $4,237,350 has been on deposit since September, in various banks, under the authorization of an act of the last Legislature, earning an annual interest of $85,000.

The condition of the State hospitals, the improvements to the San Francisco harbor under the administration of the State Harbor Commission, and the wants of the State printing office, in order to bring it up to the highest state of efficiency, are exhaustively discussed.

His recommendations regarding the extension of the parole system to good conduct prisoners other than first termers, and the beneficial effects of the workings of the system as it now exists, will commend themselves to thoughtful citizens generally.

The governor advocates a complete revision of the laws regulating common carriers and the imposition of penalties for rebating and other discriminations committed by them whereby one class of business men is benefited and another class is injured. He also urges the Legislature to enact stricter laws than those which exist governing the business of banking and putting an end to the practice of banks loaning money to their own directors and employees, which has been proved to have been the cause of the wreckage of such institutions as were forced to suspend during the panic of a year ago.

He strongly urges upon the Legislature also to revise the revenue laws and the present system of taxation by the adoption of the system of taxation embodied in the constitutional amendment which was defeated at the last general election, as a means of relieving the over-taxed farmer of the State tax now imposed upon him.

Governor Gillett favors the co-operation of the State with the Federal government in the improvement of the navigable streams, and he grows eloquent on the recommendation for the creation of a bonded indebtedness amounting to $18,000,000 for the construction of a system of good roads by the State extending from the Oregon border to the Mexican boundary line, down the great central valleys and through the fertile valleys nearer the coast. His conclusions regarding the immense value of good, smooth, macadamized roads to the producers of the State cannot be gainsaid. In Alameda county, we have a practical demonstration of that fact through the splendid system of macadamized roadways which the county Supervisors have developed of late years.

The governor's message should be read by every citizen, for it contains a vast deal of food for intelligent thought.

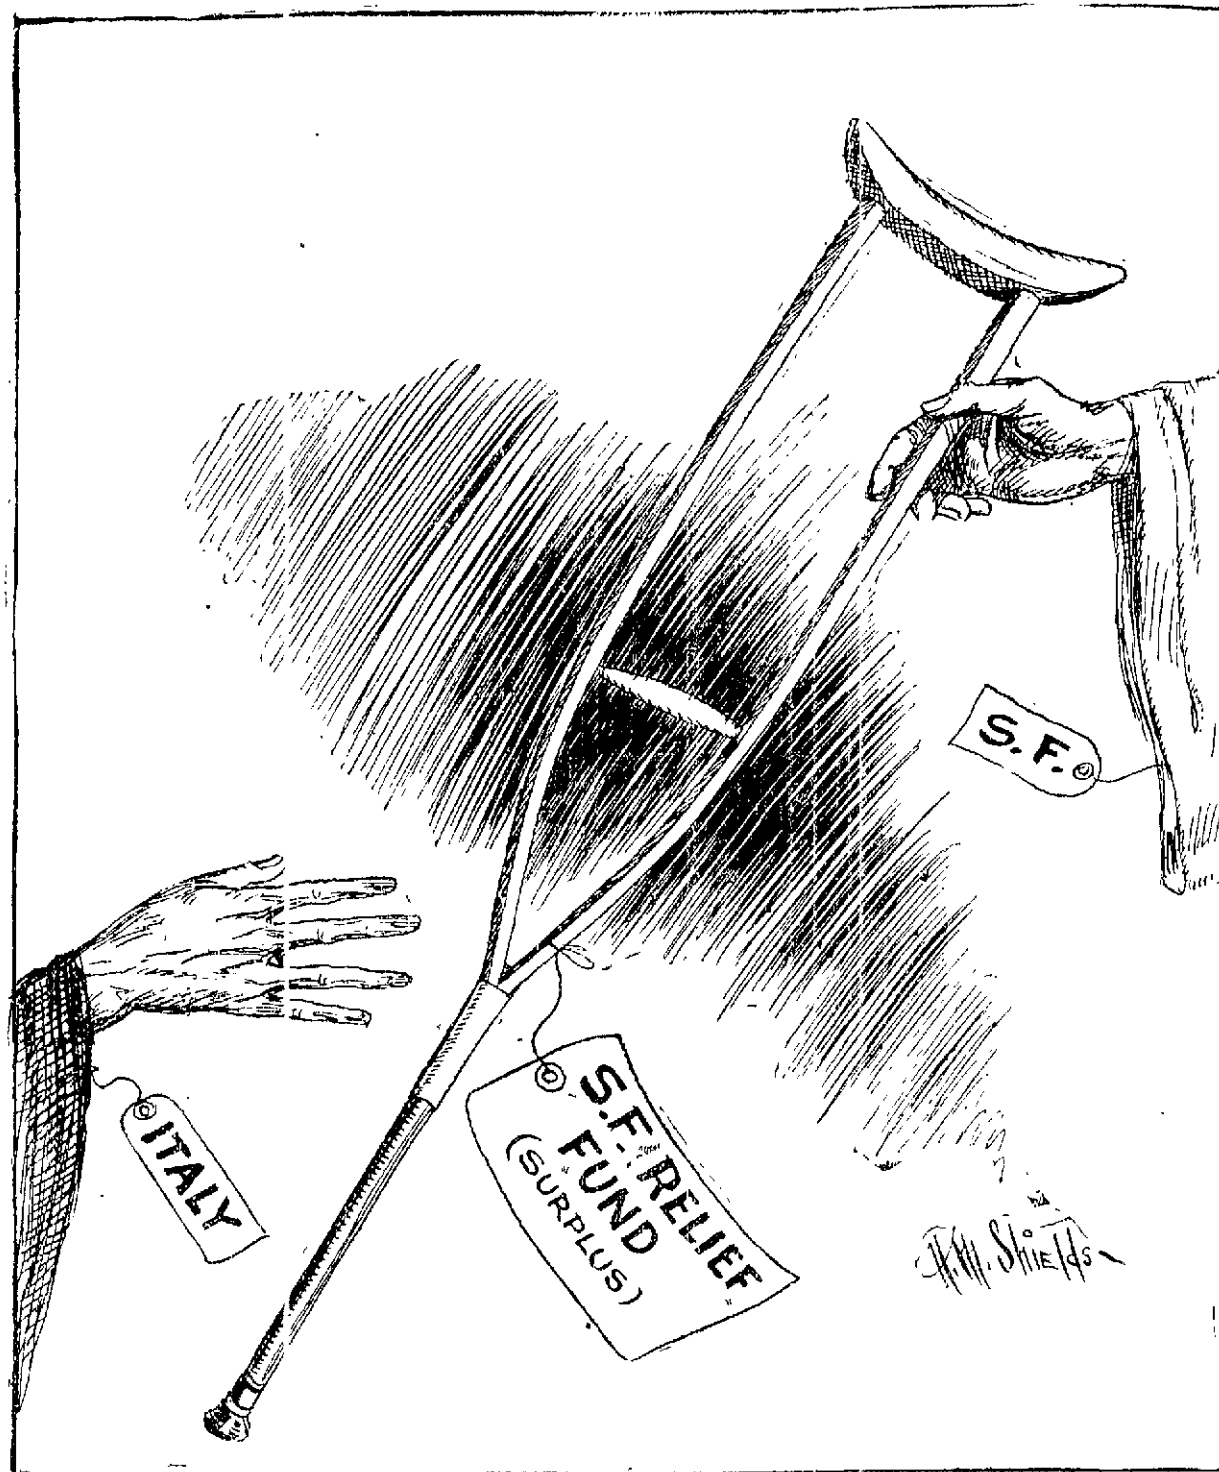

Naval Fuel Oil Test.

Although the merchant marine of the United States and vessels in the navies of other nations have been for years using crude petroleum as fuel for the generation of their steam power, the navy department has delayed introducing it into our warships until the present time, if we except the equipment of a small torpedo-boat some years ago as a test. The results obtained from that experiment proved, however, of no practical value. They left unsettled the question of the availability of oil as a safe and economical steam-making fuel for the larger warships. When ex-Secretary Metcalf was at the head of the Navy Department he decided to install oil-burning furnaces in the coast defense monitor Wyoming, now named the Cheyenne, to test the value of fuel oil for large war vessels. The installation was done during the latter part of the year at Mare Island navy yard, and, a couple of days ago, the Cheyenne left port under steam generated by the burning of crude petroleum in her furnaces, for a cruise in Santa Barbara channel, where her new equipment is to be put to the severest test. The old time bureaucrats of the navy have been greatly opposed to the adoption of crude petroleum as a fuel for the warships and have raised a great number of objections to its use, but, in all probability, they will all be brushed aside as the result of the Cheyenne's experiments. It is not credible that a fuel which has been a pronounced success in the furnaces of merchant steamships of all classes will be a failure in the furnaces of a warship of any size.

The Mountain Copper Company of Shasta county has undertaken a new system in this State of treating low grade copper ore. It has extracted one million tons of ore from the Hornet mine, which contains too small a percentage of copper to justify shipping to the smelter. This is dumped on the mountain side near the mine, where water can be turned on to leach the metal out of the ore. The drainage from the pile will then be gathered together in tanks and, with the aid of scrap iron, the copper held in solution will be precipitated and thus saved at a trifling expense. The process has been in vogue in the Montana copper mines and in the copper belt on the great lakes for several years past, and the results obtained cut a large figure in the profits. It is said that the drainage of the famous Hecla and Calumet mine contains 3 per cent of copper, and that when mining the ore there ceases to be profitable, it will pay indefinitely to pump the water for the sake of recovering its metal contents.

It is represented by the manager of the Montana Coke and Coal Company that a vast coalfield underlies Yellowstone Park. If such a deposit really exists, it can be assumed as a foregone conclusion that it won't be many years before some covetous coal baron will besiege Congress for the privilege of mining and will stick to it until he gets it.

PRESIDENT FREEL
LAUDS PROGRESS

Labor Leader Pleased With Bay District and Applauds Enterprise of People.

President J. J. Freel of the International Stevedores and Dockworkers' Union, who is visiting the wonderful recovery in San Francisco for the late disaster, and must say that to the people here is absolutely necessary. I was amazed at the spirit shown by the people here. It seems almost incredible, the great confidence the San Francisco people have in the future. They are not discouraged by the heavy great outlay of money that they have expended in the magnificent building that they have erected.

Business Outlook Bright
It seems to me that the business outlook is very bright. Everywhere I go, and the business people very optimistic regarding the future. With it is true that the resumption of business is not as rapid as they would wish, still during the past two months business conditions have improved, and I believe will continue to improve until you will be as prosperous as you ever were.

Attends Labor Meeting
I had the very great pleasure of attending the labor meeting held in the hotel during the afternoon of Monday, January 14th, at which time the speakers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, the position of organized labor on this question was very ably presented by these two addresses. The meeting was a very successful one, and I believe will be of much benefit to the labor movement.

AUTOISTS OF NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—Working of paying extortionate charges at public garages, a number of wealthy New York automobile owners have organized a $1,000,000 syndicate to build a private institution. A site for the structure has already been purchased.

"Don't you think mothers should stay at home with their children?" asked a fellow with a child, eager to score off a well known married suffragette, who had just spoken.

Miss Hawthorne reflected for a second. "Well," she said, her voice taking on a stern, intimate note, "I don't know about that, but I do think children should stay at home with their mothers."

Adelphus Hirschfeld, writing to the Daily People of Vienna, expresses the sorrow of the man who agrees to take a holiday vacation trip, but whose business, or exchange, will not permit him to indulge in the luxury. Then, to come to himself, he enumerates the numerous experiences by those who travel and from which he is spared. These agreeable people in the same company must be baggage, trouble, customs inspection, numerous food at the station restaurants and bad air are among the "pleasures" named by the writer as belonging to the "vacations of travel."

It is to be expected that the Chinese situation, from which Japan has been sustained that the Japanese situation does not expect any change in China because of this or other recent occurrences. HUGE TEXAS LAND DEAL BACKED BY J. J. HILL
KINGSVILLE, Texas, Jan. 6.—The largest ranch consolidation scheme ever undertaken is being negotiated in this part of Texas. It involves the merging of sixteen of the largest ranches in the State embracing 7,000,000 acres of land, valued at upward of $75,000,000, into one enormous tract.

The identity of the men composing the big syndicate who have obtained these options has not been disclosed, but it is reported that J. J. Hill, who recently purchased the Colorado Southern, including the latter's Texas lines, is back of the transaction.
